Dear John D. Barrett:

His Highness has your note and will be replying very shortly.

Meanwhile, with the thought that it may serve as a pre-introduction to your meeting, I enclose some background information. A copy of DATTATREYA is also in the airmail for you. This volume is much more difficult than "The Aesthetic Philosophy of India," which is still in the hands of the University of Chicago Press and unreported at this moment. His Highness will have manuscripts with him, including the material on Forestry and others mentioned on the information sheet, and I feel sure he will show then to you if you are interested. I hope you will also take the opportunity to tell him about the work of the Bollingen Foundation. He knows some of your publications, of course, but I'm sure not the whole story, and I'm sure it will interest him.

Departure date is now set for April 15, which means arrival in New York on the morning of Friday, April 17. He will be in the New York City area until Sunday, April 26, when he goes to Yale. He will be staying with Gopala Menon, Indian Consul-General, and Menon's office will be trying to keep track of His Highness' appointments. By the end of the first week in April, Mr. Menon should have our check-list of people to set for appointments. About that time, would you telephone him at India House, 3 East 64th Street, - Trafalgar 9-7800, and set up a convenient date?

Yours cordially,

Julie Medlock
